Practical fire fighting.

Employees at the Steigenberger Al Dau Beach Hotel successfully complete a fire fighting training, facilitated by a specialist of industrial safety.

Organised through the hotel's Security Department, 28 employees from departments such as Food & Beverage, Housekeeping, Recreation, Security, as well as both the general manager, Lars Geweyer, and resident manager, Karim Boushra, participated in the one day training course in July, which was facilitated by industrial safety specialist Ahmed Abd El Moneam. Participants showed a keen interest in learning all aspects of fire prevention and fire fighting, and actively participated in the practical fire fighting training.

Participants line up for a group photo during the practical fire fighting training.
